Therefore, we anticipate that YOU, the members of the Class of '92, will help us make this effort a success by contributing towards this newsletter with your stories and jokes of the years gone by ... This year's committee was finally able to put into action the much talked about 'second event' for the year by organising a six a side cricket tournament for the members of the Class of '92. The tournament was held on 4th September 2006 at the small club grounds with 9 teams in participation. The inaugural six a side cricket tournament was organised as an event to encourage fellowship among the batch mates who may not otherwise recall of any at the batch stag held in March every year. It was encouraging to see some of the guys bringing their families along to enjoy the many activities organised on their behalf. However, it is hoped that this number will increase in the ensuing years.

The inaugural sixes got off to a flyer with nine teams vying for the 'prestigious' title. The teams were made up of a variety of guys, from so-called former cricketers to the ignorant by-stander, and were led by captains that were selected as being capable of bringing in the expertise to make up a team from such variety. To wrap up a long day of hard-fought play in to a few words, the team led by Chaminda Seneviratne won the inaugural sixes to the joy of their wives and children, as well as, of course, the rest of the batch. The organising committee of this event wishes to thank all who contributed to making it a success and anticipate that the 'second event' would gather greater strength in the future.

List of Contributors to the Tyronne Liyanage Scholarship Fund:

During the months of January, February and March 2006, the Class of '92 went on a fund raising drive in order to boost the Tyronne Liyanage Scholarship Fund (referred to as the TLFund). The committee is grateful to Stefan for coming up with the idea of challenging the batch to match a donation of Rs.100,000 that eventually generated a sum of Rs.259,500.

In addition, the committee would like to give due recognition to Rushdie's contribution towards the above scholarship by way of a contribution of Rs.1,000 every month. Cheers to you all for keeping the TLFund alive 'n kicking!

Seen 'n heard ...

It was heard that a certain former cricketer participating at the six a side cricket tournament was furious at the team's dismal performance but couldn't blame it on the rest of the team since his own performance was sloppy to say the least ... However, some exclaimed that he hadn't lost his 'touch' since the Roy-Tho days ... Hohoo!

We would like to meet...

- A certain person seen campaigning at last years stag ... who was elected as an Urban Councilor in a 'puss mango' sort of place! The Batch would like to wish him the very BEST on his future campaign, long live the Rock Chintanaya!
- The recently appointed 'Vice President for South East Asia' of a world renowned telecom company. This coconut trees catch phrase toward the opposite sex ... "Hello, I-mate!"
- The ex-planter, acting as the President of the Agriculture Society who was taken to task by the Warden for trying to take the most expensive plants in College for his private collection at home!!! Ado ... !!!
- We would also like to see ... the past past President who brought his UNCLE to the batch stag!!! We absolutely wouldn't like to see the uncle ... N we hope this sort of performance is not repeated hereafter

The newlyweds are in their honeymoon room and the groom decides to let the bride know where she stands right from the start of the marriage.

He proceeds to take off his trousers and throw them at her. He says, "Put those on."

The bride replies, "I can't wear your trousers."

He replies, "And don't forget that! I will always wear the pants in the family!"

The bride takes off her knickers and throws them at him with the same request, "Try those on!"

He replies, "I can't get into your knickers!"

"And you never bloody will if you don't change your attitude."

A guy walks into a sperm donor bank wearing a ski mask and holding a gun. He goes up to the nurse and demands her to open the sperm bank vault. She says "But sir, its just a sperm bank!", "I don't care, open it now!!!" he replies. So she opens the door to the vault and inside are all the sperm samples. The guy says "Take one of those sperm samples and drink it!", she looks at him "BUT, they are sperm samples???", "DO IT!". So the nurse sucks it back. "That one there, drink that one as well.", so the nurse drinks that one as well. Finally after 4 samples the man takes off his ski mask and says, "See honey - its not that hard."
